FROM THE Anchor Club.

WHEN Great-Britain, in purſuance of her plan for ſtarving out the Fever of the French revolutioniſts, ſeized on numbers of our veſſels, the blood of the whole nation boiled with rage. A loud call for vengeance, kindled into animation even that ſluggiſh and inſenſible maſs, the long eared tribe of Midas; who while they deſcanted on the Honor of the Nation, inwardly longed for the ſpoils of Britiſh commerce and the gold of Pitt.

With theſe coaleſced all the numerous herds of Jacobins, half-federaliſts, true Americans and impartialiſts. The burthen of their declamations was the Honor, the wounded Honor and compromitted Dignity of the Nation. "A Nation," ſaid they, "can hardly ſacrifice too much to preſerve an unſullied character." "Acquieſcence with injuries, begets new injuries, injuries beget inſults, and inſults will beget contempt, and degradation."*

In many of theſe ſentiments joined alſo the Government and its friends—with this difference, that the pretended guardians of the honor and dignity of the nation would immediately have declared war!—whereas the friends of Government thought ſound policy required at leaſt an attempt to obtain juſtice by negociation, previouſly to unſheathing the ſword.

That the motives which governed the factious demagogues of that day, were as baſe as theſe of the leaders of the preſent, no man of ſenſe ever doubted; but in endeavouring to lug the country violently into a war, proved afterwards to be unneceſſary, it will be allowed, that many of the arguments adduced by them, comported admirably with the fitneſs of things, and the intereſts of a nation ſo peculiarly ſituated as ours. "A ſtate of things may exiſt," ſaid a diſtinguiſhed member of the oppoſition, "in which reprisal not only becomes the right but the duty of the nation ſuſtaining the wrong. This happens, when one nation without cauſe, forcibly ſeizes upon the effects of another, or of its citizens, and withholds them, without reſtitution or compenſation; and when the nation whose effects shall be so seized and detained, shall possess no other means of indemnification."

This is an axiom moſt unqualifiedly juſt; to its juſtice the friends of government unanimouſly ſubſcribed, and on its principles did they act, by ſending an Envoy to Great-Britain. Had he returned without ſucceſs, we ſhould have found ourſelves in the exact predicament above deſcribed. It was underſtood at the time, that had Mr. Jay failed in his negociations, (when of courſe, "no other means of indemnification" would have remained) war would have been immediately declared. For evidence of this intention, the reader is referred to the ſpeeches of Federal members, to the ſpeech of the Preſident, to the meaſures adopted by Congreſs, the Embargo, Fortification of Ports and Harbors, raiſing an army of Seventy Thouſand Men, and a Naval Armament.

Such was our repulſive temper of mind towards Great-Britain,—towards a nation that was fighting our battles—towards a nation, on our relations with which, our all depended,—towards a nation which was reſcuing our property (from that gulph of treachery and rapacity, which has ſwallowed up ſo many millions) to be held in truſt, and reſtored with ample retribution.

The circumſtances, the peculiar circumſtances, which contributed to this diſplay of ſpirit, are too freſh in memory, to need a recurrence. They are gone down—and the feeling, the pride, the honor, the ſpirit of the nation are gone too. There is now no American character‡ to ſpurn at inſult—A crowd of intruders have ſhaken down the pillars of that once ſplendid edifice, and compounded of its ruins a mongrel philoſophy which inculcates ſubſerviency to views and wiſhes foreign to our natures, and hoſtile to our exiſtence. In this new ſchool, the ſenſe and meaning of terms is utterly perverted; and words have loſt their ſignification. National honor, a theme once dwelt on with rapture, is now an empty bubble. The salus populi, the ſecurity and welfare of a citizen or the community at large, once deemed the prime purpoſe and leading care of government is now trodden contemptuouſly under foot, or loſt ſight of in the purſuit of a new fangled form, ſtyled national policy, the love of peace, and calculations of profit and loſs. A leſs odious tax, than even the moſt petulant ill humor has ſince borne, enflamed into oppoſition every tenant of every log-houſe on the continent, and drew forth to action the very woods and ſtones.‖

Such were the effects which ſprung from this ſimple cauſe—Effects, which no exceſs of inſult—no length of aggreſſion—no accumulation of bitterer reproach on bitter injury, on the part of another nation, have yet been ſufficient to produce.

France has, by appealing to our paſſions, and by a thouſand indirect methods, attempted to ſeduce us into a war—ſhe has armed our citizens againſt nations with whom we were at peace,—ſhe has erected tribunals on our territory, to decide on cauſes, only cognizable by our own courts,—ſhe has repeatedly violated our neutrality, by ſeizing on our veſſels, or deſtroying them in our ports and harbors—ſhe has refuſed payment for ſupplies furniſhed her by our merchants in purſuance of the moſt ſolemn contract—ſhe has converted her dominions into ſo many aſylums for pirates, more to be dreaded than the Barbary rovers,—ſhe has endangered the very exiſtence of the ſouthern ſtates by arming her negroes againſt their maſters,—ſhe has attempted to impoſe the public enemy of the ſtate upon us, for a Preſident,—ſhe has, in the moſt open manner, invited the people to inſurrection and the overthrow of their government,—ſhe has unceaſingly foſtered a neſt of vipers, in the very councils of the nation, by granting free paſſage to their ſhips, while ſhe has indiſcriminately ſeized thoſe of others,—ſhe has left no means of fraud or violence uneſſayed to drag other nations into her ſyſtem of oppreſſion againſt us,—ſhe has ſeized, impriſoned, chained, whipped, tortured, and murdered our ſeamen,—ſhe has levied armies on our territory—ſhe has threatened, abuſed, inſulted and baniſhed our miniſters of peace,—ſhe has demanded of us TRIBUTE, and unconditional ſubmiſſion to her will,—ſhe has attempted to reſtrain us in the exerciſe of every right appertaining to an independent nation,—ſhe has forbidden us to make treaties without her conſent,—ſhe has undertaken to impoſe on us, her own peculiar and oppreſſive forms of navigation,—to preſcribe the articles in which we ſhall trade,—and the ports with which we ſhall proſecute our commercial purſuits,—ſhe has ſtigmatized our public functionaries as venal knaves, and the whole people as fools, dupes, and ſlaves, and ſhe has hired preſſes in our own country to reiterate her abuſe,—ſhe has told us that we dare not go to war with her, for that ſhe has her clutches faſt hold on us, and that we ſhall ſtruggle under her graſp in vain.

But this long catalogue (which is, however, only a feeble outline of her conduct towards us) black and blaſting as it is, holds not up ſtronger incentives to war, than certain other motives which as opportunity preſents, it is intended hereafter to dwell on.

For the preſent, to trace the cauſes of this apparent diverſity of character;—of this aſtoniſhing union of the greateſt jealouſy with the greateſt inſenſibility, within the ſhort ſpace of four years, in the ſame people, is a purſuit well worthy the attention of every man who loves his country. It is in fact the only means by which we can ever obviate the evils we ſuffer. E.

* Speech of Wm. B. Giles.

† See S. Smith's propoſitions and ſpeeches in Congreſs. Clarke's do. Madiſon's do. and the Sequeſtration affair. See, alſo, the ſpeeches of W. B. Giles, and the oppoſition generally.

‡ The "Americaniſm" of the preſent day is thus defined by the people who excluſively pretend to the character of "True Americans":—"Let us neither be Engliſhmen nor Frenchmen,—let us be Americans." Ergo, he that is neither Engliſhman nor Frenchman is an American. O! well-painted character!

‖ No fable: we began our war for Independence, without any of the neceſſary means; hence ſtones were collected on the hills where forts had been erected, as ſubſtitutes for cannon and balls.

OFFICIAL PAPER.

The following Official Account of the famous battle of the Nile, has been ſent by the Commiſſioners of the Executive Directory in Italy, to the Conſuls of Rome. It is faithfully tranſlated from the Italian, and we preſent it to our Readers as a very curious ſpecimen of the arts uſed by the French Government to delude the wretched People who are unfortunately ſubject to their ſway.

ROME, 26 Fructidor, (Sept. 12.)

The Commissioners of the Executive Directory of the French Republic to the Conſuls of Rome.

CITIZENS CONSULS,

A half truth publiſhed by a government is a falſehood. A falſehood is uſual to kings, whoſe intereſt is to deceive the people. A republican government owes the whole truth entirely to the people, becauſe the Sovereign, in whoſe name and for whom it governs, has the right of knowing every thing. The policy of kings has been manifeſted in all the inſidious accounts with which Rome has been furniſhed for ſome days from Naples. Some circumſtances have been uttered with affectation which are true enough; but much care has been taken to avoid ſpeaking of Buonaparte's conqueſts, wonderful conqueſts, if we may think any thing wonderful done by Buonaparte. Several accounts have been given of a naval action which has taken place of Alexandria, in which the loſs of the French is ſtated, and that of the Engliſh concealed. Theſe are the falſe concealments which we ſhall unveil to all Europe, by giving a few details which may be depended upon, as we have received them officially. On the 13th Meſſidor, the French ſquadron arrived of Alexandria. Two days before, the Engliſh ſquadron had preſented itſelf off that port. In the night of the 13th, the troops diſembarked; Buonaparte landed with his columns. On the 15th, preparations were made for the attack of Alexandria. At night two columns, commanded by generals Kleber and Menon, without any artillery, began the attack. The reſiſtance was great—two or three hundred men periſhed.—Kleber and Menon were wounded—French intrepidity at laſt triumphed, and our ſoldiers entered Alexandria. The clemency of the conqueror equalled his valour—The inhabitants of Alexandria were diſarmed without violence. The ſheriff was continued in all his functions, and decorated with the tricoloured flag. Buonaparte convoked the chiefs of the Arabs, and concluded a treaty with them. After the capture of Alexandria, detachments were ſent to occupy the neighboring forts; Roſetta opened its gates and ſent a deputation to the French with the tri-coloured ſtandard. Buonaparte, after having taken poſſeſſion of all the country in the neighborhood of Alexandria, ſent his army by the Nile towards Cairo. He himſelf went by land to take the command of his columns. General Bon and Vial, at the head of their diviſions, attacked a poſt defended by 100,000 Mamelucks, and defeated them. This new victory determined Cairo to open its gates, and on the 5th Thermidor Buonaparte entered the town. During this glorious expedition the ſhips le Cauſſe and le Dubois, eight frigates, all the tranſports, and all the gun boats, were ſafe in the port of Alexandria. Thirteen of our ſhips of the line could not enter for want of depth of water, and were anchored in the Roads.—On the 15th Thermidor, the Engliſh ſquadron, conſiſting of 15 ſail of the line appeared, and a terrible action immediately took place, ſuch as the ſeas of the Levant have have never ſeen ſince the battles of Actium and Lepanto. The French, it is true, are not the conquerors; but with an inferior number they have diſputed the ſceptre of Neptune with proud England, and they have proved that the Republican navy is ſtill able to ſnatch it out of her hands. The French, it is true, have ſuſtained great loſs, but that of the Engliſh is equally conſiderable.

Let us ſpeak the truth—we have loſt by fire the ſhip l'Orient, and we lament the death of the brave Admiral Brueys, who was killed by a cannon-ball, and the brave captain Du Petit Thouars, who was wounded in the thigh, and would not leave the deck, but continued to command and encourage his crew. Four other ſhips periſhed in the action—all this is true; but the Engliſh Admiral is killed or wounded; his fleet is in the greateſt diſorder; nine of their ſhips are entirely diſmaſted; two have ſtruck on the rocks; and on the 16th Thermidor, at fifty minutes after eleven, they were petrified, as it were, in the Road of Beguiers, confuſedly with the French ſhips. The crew of the l'Orient was ſaved. The ſhip Genereux muſt be at Corfu. The Guillaume Tell, commanded by Vice-Admiral Villeneuve, arrived at Malta, the 13th Fructidor, with the frigates l'Adrian, and la Juſtice. The crews are all well, the ſhips are in perfect condition, and no Engliſh ſhip has yet appeared in the Grecian or Sicilian ſeas—The 16th Thermidor, the Engliſh began a negociation to obtain permiſſion to put on ſhore more than 1500 of their wounded, and to diſembark the French priſoners.—We are ignorant of what has ſince happened. It is to be preſumed that the frigates and gun boats came out of the port of Alexandria to the aſſiſtance of our diſabled ſhips, and that the remains of the Engliſh ſquadron have not been able to ſave them. This, citizen Conſuls, is the truth;—we now aſk all men who are not prejudiced, if England and her partizans can look upon the reſult of the action of the 25th Thermidor as a victory? The friends of liberty, though they have to lament the loſs of ſo many republican heroes, will only ſee in this event the ſucceſs of the ſublime projects of Buonaparte. They will ſee the liberty of Europe eſtabliſhed by the liberty of Africa and Aſia; they will ſee the terrible foundation of the Engliſh commerce entirely ruined, the empire of the ſeas wreſted from their greedy hands; they will ſee a revolution more ſudden and more favorable to humanity, than the diſcovery of the Cape of Good Hope; finally, they will ſee Buonaparte more exalted in his ideas, more philoſophical, and more philanthropic in his principles, more enlightened, and, with the talents of Alexander himſelf, perform more with 40,000 French than the King of Macedon with 40,000 Macedonians. The tri-colored flag waving on the Nile, the Tigris, the Euphrates, the Indus, and the Ganges, will conſole the ſhades of the French warriors, who periſhed glorioufly in the Roads of Alexandria.

BERTOLIO.

LISBON, November 4.

On the 27th October all the French prizes, except le Peuple Souverain, which was left at Gibraltar as a magazine, entered this port. It is not yet known when they will ſail for England, The Orion, commanded by Sir James Saumarez, ſets ſail on the 5th or 6th inſt. It is ſaid that it will ſail alone. The Duke d'Havre, who has lately arrived from Spain, has received an order from Lord St. Vincent to take his paſſage on board that ſhip.

According to the accounts which the French priſoners have given the Engliſh officers, the republican army loſt between 200 and 3000 men, in the attack upon Alexandria, and about 1500 died of thirſt of heat, or of fatigue, in one of their late marches towards Cairo. Such is the laſt intelligence which has reached Alexandria, for ſince the commencement of hoſtilities with the Mamelucks, there has been no communication between the troops with Buonaparte and thoſe whom he left in garriſon in Egypt.

At the time when the prizes quitted the coaſt of Egypt, the garriſon of Alexandria was reduced to the greateſt want. They had ſubſiſted for ſome time on the proviſions which had been given them from the tranſports, and as thoſe had not been managed in the moſt œconomical manner, there remained little of them in ſtore. It is hardly neceſſary to obſerve, that upon a failure of this ſtore, there was not a ſingle bottle of liquor in the city to recruit it.

The utmoſt confuſion took place in the diſembarkation of the French troops at Alexandria; in conſequence of their having learnt that the Engliſh had appeared off that port a few days before. They effected their diſembarkation in the greateſt confuſion, and under an apprehenſion that the Engliſh were cloſe at hand to ſet fire to their ſhips. They had neither batteries nor forts to protect them, in ſuch a caſe, but after their diſembarkation they erected them. They had, indeed, when they left France, ſo little idea of meeting with any oppoſition, that they had not victualed their ſquadron for a homeward-bound paſſage, relying on the certainty of receiving aſſiſtance from the Italian ports. There was not more than eighteen days proviſion on board the prizes, which was much at this time of the year is commonly very long.

Sir J. Saumarez, when he paſſed by Malta, ſet on ſhore about 1200 ſtand of arms, which he diſtribnted among the inhabitants who had revolted againſt the French. The Malteſe had killed about 400 men who had ventured beyond the fortreſs. The French had ſufficient flour for their ſubſiſtence during a long time, but they had no other neceſſaries.

We do not yet know what is the deſtination of General Stuart; according to ſome he is going to Malta; according to others Minorca. All that we know here is, that he has under his command ſome of the beſt troops from Gibralter, and that he has alſo with him ſome very heavy artillery.

A Portugueze convoy this day came into port, under convoy of a frigate. She was bound from the Azores and Madeira Iſlands. The frigate had taken a French privateer of 16 guns, which had made prize of one of the ſquadron that ſtrayed from the fleets. The regiment of Dillon has taken the place of the 51ſt Regiment, which was in Caſtair Fort. One of the foreign regiments has reſumed its former barracks at Liſbon.

The crews of the French prizes, as well as of the three Engliſh veſſels which brought them in, are in good health.

BASLE, October 9.

The march of 15,000 French troops through this city has juſt been announced. The whole French army has orders to advance. A demy-brigade is to arrive on the 15th inſtant, and the remainder is to follow on the 16th and 17th. Theſe troops are deſtined for the eaſtern frontiers of Switzerland. One diviſion is to take poſſeſſion of the ground between Reineck, and the lake of Boden, all the prelates and other clergy are packing up their effects, ready for flight. The Griſons are ſtrongly attached to the Auſtrians.

According to letters from Coire, of the 2d, inſt. the Diet, previous to its ſeparating, iſſued orders for a general prayer, and for raiſing 6000 men. Every poſſible preparation was ordered to be made for putting the frontiers in the ſtate of defence—each commune to hold its contingent in readineſs to march on the firſt notice.—M. de Salis Marchlins, a ci-devant lieutenant general in the French ſervice, has been appointed commander of the levy en maſſe, under the inſpection of a council of war. The French troops have already advanced to the extremity of the Griſon frontiers.

DUBLIN, Oct. 26.

By the recent juncture and active bravery of the military and yeomanry troops in the counties of Wicklow and Wexford, we are extremely happy to learn that a death blow has been given to the ſanguinary marauders under Holt, Hacket, and other deſperate and abandoned leaders, who no tenders of mercy could induce to abandon their rebellious purſuits, and who could have no other object but devaſtation and plunder.

Theſe barbarian hordes principally conſiſted of either the exaſperated relatives of rebels who had fallen by the ſword of war, or the hand of juſtice—or of miſcreants, whoſe bloody artifices were too notorious in the country to allow them any hope of eluding a juſt and terrible vengeance—or of deſerters from the king's ſtandard, who could have no mercy to expect.

Extract of a letter from Hacketstown.

"The rebel Holt and his deſperate banditti had kept undiſturbed poſſeſſion of the mountains and high grounds, till the Glengary Highlanders, under the command of col. Macdonold, arrived here; theſe, with a detachment from the 89th regiment, attacked the rebels the very next morning, on the top of Lagnakilla, the higheſt mountain in the county of Wicklow; which, till then, had been deemed inacceſſible; killed ſeveral of them; and had not the approach of night and a very thick fog favored the flight of the rebels, the troops would have given a very good account of them. They were, however ſo panic ſtruck, that they never halted till they got to Oakwood.

"This neighbourhood has been freed from their ravages ever ſince; and ſo unremitting is the zeal and activity of the officers and men, that notwithſtanding the inclemency of the weather in this advanced ſeaſon, they have not ſlept three nights following on their beds for a month paſt."

November 13.

Yeſterday application was made by councellors Curran and Johnſton, to the court of king's bench, for an habeas corpus, to bring before that court Theobald Wolfe Tone, grounded on the affidavit of his father, Mr. Peter Tone, purporting, that Theobald Wolfe Tone was tried by a court martial, on a charge of High Treaſon, and was ordered for execution, though the ſaid T. Wolfe Tone did not belong to his majeſty's army, &c. and that ſuch proceedings and ſentence was pronounced during the ſitting of his majeſty's law courts.

The court ordered the habeas corpus, and that the priſoner ſhould be brought up to the bar of the court instanter.

In ſome ſhort time an anſwer was made to the court, that Theobald Wolfe Tone was unfit to be brought up, having dangerouſly wounded himſelf, and the ſurgeon belonging to the 5th dragoons appearing to give teſtimony, the court ordered him to be examined, when he depoſed, that he had viſited T. W. Tone in the prevot marſhalſea, who was incapable of being removed, in conſequence of his making an attempt on his life, having with a razor cut his throat acroſs, nearly from ear to ear, and alſo ſeparated the windpipe—that languiſhing under his preſent condition, he could not be ſtirred without immediate danger to his life.

[Dub. Even. Poſt.]

The following is a copy of a correſpondence between Theobald Wolfe Tone and major general the earl of Cavan, dated Derry priſon, 12 Brumaire, an. 6. 2d Nov. 1798. N. S.

"My Lord,

"On my arrival here, major Cheſter informed me that his orders from your lordſhip, in conſequence, as I preſume, of the directions of government, were, that I ſhould be put in irons: I take it for granted thoſe orders were iſſued in ignorance of the rank I have the honor to hold in the armies of the French republic; I am, in conſequence to appriſe your lordſhip, that I am breveted as chief de brigade in the infantry, ſince the 1ſt Meſſidor, an. 4; that I have been promoted to the rank of adjutant general the 2d Niveſe, an. 6; and finally, that I have ſerved as ſuch, attached to gen. Hardy, ſince the 3d. Thermidor, an. 6, by virtue of the orders of the miniſter at war. Major Cheſter, to whom I have ſhewn my commiſſions, can ſatisfy your lordſhip as to the fact, and gen. Hardy will aſcertain the authority of the documents.

"Under theſe circumſtances, I addreſs myſelf to your lordſhip, as a man of honor and a ſoldier; and I do proteſt, in the moſt preciſe and ſtrongeſt manner, againſt the indignity intended againſt the honor of the French army in my perſon; and I claim the the rights and privileges of a priſoner of war, agreeable to my rank and ſituation in an army no leſs to be reſpected in all points, than any other which exiſts in Europe.

"From the ſituation your lordſhip holds under your command, I muſt preſume you have a diſcretionary power to act according to circumſtances; and I cannot for a moment doubt but what I have now explained to your lordſhip will induce you to give immediate orders that the honor of the French nation and the French army be reſpected in my perſon; and that of courſe I ſhall ſuffer no coercion other than in common with the reſt of my brave comrades, whom the fortune of war has for the moment deprived of their liberty. I am, my lord, with great reſpect,

"Your lordſhip's moſt obedient ſervant,

"T. W. TONE, dit SMITH, adj. gen."

ANSWER.

From major-general the earl of Cavan, to Theobald Wolfe Tone.

"Rarneranna, November 3, 1798.

"SIR,

"I have received your letter of this date from Derry goal, in which you inform me that you conſider your being ordered into irons, as an inſult and degradation to the rank you hold in the army of the French republic, and that you proteſt, in the moſt preciſe and ſtrongeſt manner, againſt ſuch indignity. Had you been a native of France or of any other country not belonging to the Britiſh empire, indiſputable it would be ſo; but the motive that directed me to give the order I did this morning, for your being put in irons, was, that I looked on you (and you have proved yourself) a traitor and rebel to your sovereign and native country, and as such you shall be treated by me.

"I shall enforce the order I give this morning, and I lament, as a man, the fate that awaits you; every indulgence shall be granted you by me individually, that is not inconsistent with my public duty.

"I am, sir, your humble servant,

"CAVAN, major-general."

LONDON, November 3.

A letter from a gentleman at Dover, dated the 31st ult. says, "An action took place off this place, a day or two ago, between an English brig, the Racoon, and a French lugger. After an obstinate defence, the latter was sunk by the Racoon; seven of her crew were killed, and 14 wounded. The rest were picked up by the British ship. Yesterday the body of an English naval officer floated ashore, supposed to belong to the Racoon, and was picked up by a soldier of the Herts militia stationed here.

PRIVATE LETTERS.

"Dublin, October 26.

"For some time back the county of Wexford was again becoming the scene of violence and depredation, and it was feared that it arose from the general disposition of the inhabitants. I, however, saw a letter to-day, which corrects that opinion.—Hacket, one of the principal colleagues of Holt, was the chief of a banditti of thirteen persons by whom that part of the country was infested; and as the letter stated, he not only burned the chapels to excite the resentment of the people against their protestant neighbours, to whom the act was ascribed, but also wanted to seduce the inhabitants of the Macamores, a tract of country between Gorey and Wexford, into renewed rebellion; but this they happily resisted, and in proof of their determined allegiance, gave information of Hecket to the officer commanding at Gorey, who, on Saturday last, detached a part of the Camolin, Balinkeel, and Hunter Cowan's yeomanry against Hacket and his gang, with whom they came up at a place called Castle Talbot, and after a very severe conflict, killed nine and wounded two, whom they made prisoners and lodged in Gorey gaol. Hacket and Doyle, another notorious villain, effected their escape across the bog of Boiry, into which they rode as far as their horses could carry them, and then dismounting, perfected their flight on foot."

Another letter, same date.

"The vessels have left Killala bay. No attempt was made to land.

"Holt is said to have sent in terms of capitulation. He is reduced to twenty men. Lord Monck is said to have carried his offer."

November 9.

A letter from Dublin states, that the head of the rebel Hacket is fixed on a pike in a conspicuous place of the town of Gorey. He was second in command to Holt. Information had been obtained that he and four of his gang were lurking in a wood near Gorey; several corps of yeomanry were collected, who begirted the wood and left no means of escape. Hacket and his party fought desperately, until their ammunition was quite expended; they were then surrounded. Three of them were killed. Hacket and another died fighting.

November 17.

The Dublin mail of this day confirms the intelligence of the rebel chief Holt having surrendered: it is said on terms of transportation.

Mr. Tone was alive when our letters left Dublin.

PLYMOUTH, November 15.

This morning arrived from Falmouth, the Chapman armed ship, of 24 guns, capt. Kern, having in tow the Bellone, French frigate, of 40 guns, captured by the Ethalion, of 38 guns, on the coast of Ireland: she is totally dismasted, and otherwise a mere wreck.

Five P. M.—His majesty's ship Tigre, of 80 guns, captain sir Sydney Smith, is now getting under way in Cawsand Bay, to sail for the Mediteranean.

SHEERNEES, November 16.

Arrived this day the Furie, of 36 guns, and the Waakzaaheid, of 28 guns, Dutch frigates, from Yarmouth, prizes to his majesty's ship Sirius, of 36 guns captain King.

SIR,

FOR the shameful and studied falsehoods with which you have assailed my character, in a publication under your signature, I demand satisfaction.

My friend, Mr. Oswald, who bears this note, is authorized to take any necessary steps on my behalf.

JOHN WARD FENNO.

Dr. William Bache.

Saturday Morning, Jan. 19.

B. told Mr. Oswald, "that until I had answered the challenge he delivered me from his friend Dr. Reynolds, he should have nothing to say to me;—after which he was at my service."

As it was utterly impossible that I ever could meet Reynolds, I considered this reply as a dastardly evasion, and proceeded to post him in the following terms, in the Merchants' Coffee-House, at 3 o'clock, P. M.

Dr. William Bache having traduced my character by the most shameful and studied falsehoods, and having refused me satisfaction, when called upon, I hereby publish him as a Liar, a Coward, and a True Democrat.

JOHN WARD FENNO.

Philad. Saturday evening Jan. 19.

At the same time and place I affixed the following paper:

James Reynolds, commonly called Doctor Reynolds, having asserted that I refused to fight him, when I had not received a challenge, and having neglected to answer to a defiance which I sent him, I do hereby publish him for an infamous Liar and Coward.

JOHN WARD FENNO.

Philad. Saturday evening Jan. 19.

At about 11 o'clock at night, two men rushed into the Coffee House, and awakened the Bar Keeper, who being ordered to set up alone for a club, had fallen asleep. On examination, he found after they had ran out, that they had removed the above papers.

It is worthy of note, that the Impeachment of Blount has been quashed by the Democratic party, whilst their Gazettes abound in slurs at the friends of Government, for their tardiness and disinclination to prosecute the business.

In the Assembly of the State of Delaware, the proposition of the Legislature of Massachusetts, to amend the Constitution of the United States so as to exclude foreigners from a participation in the Government, was agreed to, almost unanimously, there being only three votes in the negative.

William Hill Wells, Esq. has been appointed Senator of the United States, for the State of Delaware, in the place of the late Joshua Clayton, deceased.

Extract of a letter from Boston, Jan. 11th, 1799, to the Editor of this Paper

"You have damped the United Irish in this town: they had a meeting very lately, and one of the Club made a motion, that the society should be dissolved, which was put and carried; our friend ——— has a copy of all their proceedings."

From a Correspondent in Pittsburg.

Since the year 1793, at which time the Aurora became distinguished as the vehicle of Sedition, weekly packages of news-papers from that office have been forwarded by post to Pittsburgh addressed to John Sewal, esq. It is worthy of remark, that there is not, and never has been, a person of that name, resident in Pittsburg, or in the county of Alleghany; and that, although official information to that effect has been repeatedly sent to Bache, the practice has been continued. Are the charges of subscription, postage &c. paid out of the secret service money of M. Talleyrand, or from the same funds that defrayed the expences of the Loganian Embassy?

COMMUNICATION.

The house of assembly of New-Jersey this day dismissed the Virginia and Kentucky resolutions on the subject of the sedition and alien bills passed by Congress last summer:—they would not permit them to lie on the table; but on a motion for a second reading, it was refused. Some gentlemen wished to have them read a second time, at the same time declaring they would vote against them; but they were desirous to give an answer, which might satisfy those states that the legislature considered both the mode and the principles of their conduct as hostile to the Union. However, the greatest part of the members conceived that the best way was to dismiss such factious resolutions without debate, lest it might be supposed that representatives of New-Jersey were willing to hold a correspondence so insulting to the Federal Government. It is to be hoped that the legislatures of other states will follow the example of New-Jersey, and not permit such treasonable correspondence to pollute their files.

CONCORD, N. H. DEC. 22.

BLODGET'S CANAL.

Yesterday the Legislature passed "An act to incorporate Samuel Blodget, esq. and others his associates, with the exclusive right and privilege of cutting a Canal by Amoskeig Falls, on Merrimack River, and locking the same." By this generous act, the Legislature have done themselves much honor; it is liberal to the proprietors, but ten times more so to the public; for it opens an extensive country, abounding with stately masts, spars, white oaks, and all kinds of lumber. This Canal is nearly finished—through which an easy and cheap conveyance may be had to the waters at Newbury-Port and Boston; and thus enhance the value of lands on Merrimak River, in a short time, to millions of dollars.

Frist Day, or Sunday Schools.

The Board of Visitors, appointed by the Society for the support of First-day or Sunday Schools, have the pleasure to inform their fellow-citizens, that the three Schools (which have been closed during the late awful sickness) are again opened for the reception of Scholars, under the care of capable masters, where they are taught to spell, read, and write: principally from the holy scriptures, and at such time as will not interfere with the hours appointed for Religious Worship, it being expected that the scholars will attend the places to which they respectively belong.

From the experience of several years, the Society are fully convinced of the great utility of these Schools in "teaching the young idea how to shoot."—The board therefore earnestly desire, that parents and others, who have the care of young persons, in want of instruction, would send them as soon as may be convenient.

They also solicitously call upon all characters of influence, particularly their brethren in Southwark, where the School is at present small, to communicate this information to the parents or guardians of such as are fit objects for these schools, and endeavor to prevail upon them to do justice to the charge committed to their care, which their indispensable duty enjoins: for many valuable talents are often obscured, by the veil of ignorance, which might, by the cultivating hand of science, become honorable to the possessors, and furnish useful members to society.

A School for males is taught by John Poor, in Cherry-alley, between Third and Fourth Street; one for females is kept by John Ely, Third above Mulberry Street, back of the Presbyterian Meeting-house; and one for males by Thaddeus Brown, in Front, near Almond-street in Southwark. Books, pens, ink, and paper being provided for the scholars.

The Schools are at present open from 7 to half past 9 o'clock in the forenoon, and from 1 to 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Signed by order of the Board,

SAMUEL SCOTTEN, Chairman.

TO THE

Promoters of Literature.

THE managers of the Beula Seminary, impelled by motives of pure morality, having resolved to dispose of the following property by way of LOTTERY, in order to assist them in erecting a convenient building for the accommodation of one hundred students, and the necessary professors in the different departments of science—do offer for sale three hundred and fifty lots in BEULA, each fifty-eight feet by one hundred and twenty-five, at twenty dollars per ticket, each ticket entitled to a lot to be determined by ballot; ten dollars to be paid on receipt of the ticket, and the remaining ten on the delivery of the deed. The ballot to take place before impartial men, as soon as the whole number of tickets are sold.

The managers, anticipating the difficulty of obtaining cash for the whole, have resolved to receive an equivalent, for some of the lots, in select books; philosophical apparatus, or in produce and materials for building, delivered on the spot.

It may be observed, that the value of prizes in this lottery will be more than double the amount of all the tickets; for 350 lots, would at their average estimation, produce at least 15,750 dollars; whilst, according to the present proposals, the sum obtained for them will be only 7,000 dollars.

Tickets may be had during this winter, of Morgan J. Rhees, president of the board of managers, no. 177, south Second-street, Philadelphia; who will receive proposals and plans for the erection of the building. It is intended to be of brick or stone; its situation on the summit of a gradual rising eminence, commanding an extensive prospect of the surrounding country; an observatory to be on its top.

Land and out lots in the vicinity of the Town may be had on moderate terms by applying as above. Mechanics and laborers, of good morals will meet with encouragement.

January 8, 1799. eod6w

WHEREAS,

BY an Act of Congress passed the sixteenth day of July in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and ninety eight, the President of the United States is authorised to borrow on behalf of the United States from the Bank of the United States, or from any other body or bodies politic or corporate, or from any person or persons, and upon such terms and conditions as he shall judge most advantageous for the United States, a sum not exceeding five millions of dollars, so however, that no contract or engagement be made which shall preclude the United States from reimbursing any sum or sums borrowed at any time after the expiration of fifteen years from the date of such loan. And whereas, it is declared by the said Act, that so much as may be necessary of the surplus of the duties on Imports and Tonnage beyond the permanent appropriations heretofore charged upon them by law, shall be pledged and appropriated for paying the interest, and also for paying and discharging the principal sum or sums of all the monies which may be borrowed, according to the term or terms which may be fixed, pursuant to the authority aforesaid—And whereas by the said Act, the faith of the United States is pledged to establish sufficient permanent Revenues for making up any deficiency that may hereafter appear in the provisions before mentioned for paying the interest and principal sums, or either of them, of any monies which may be borrowed pursuant to the said Act. And whereas the President of the United States did by an Act or Commission under his hand dated the ninth day of January in the year one thousand seven hundred and ninety nine, authorise and empower, the Secretary of the Treasury, to borrow on behalf of the United States, any sum not exceeding in the whole, five millions of dollars and to make such contract or contracts as should be necessary, and for the interest of the United States, in pursuance of the Act of Congress above recited.

Now therefore, the undersigned, Secretary of the Treasury, in pursuance of the Act of Congress, and the authority from the President of the United States, above mentioned, doth hereby on behalf of the United States of America, contract and engage in manner following, to wit.

1st. A book for receiving subscriptions to a Loan of five millions of dollars for the use of the United States shall be opened in the city of Philadelphia, at the Bank of the United States on Thursday the twenty eighth day of February ensuing, which book shall continue open for the purpose of receiving subscriptions, until the whole of the said five millions of dollars shall be subscribed. If more than five millions of dollars shall be subscribed on the first day of opening the said loan, the surplus shall be deducted in proportion to the sums subscribed by individuals, exceeding four thousand dollars.

2d. For every hundred dollars which may be subscribed there shall be forthwith deposited and paid the sum of twelve dollars and fifty cents, and like payments of twelve dollars and fifty cents, shall be made within the first ten days of the months of April, May, June, July, August September and October ensuing. The Secretary of the Treasury however reserves the right of reducing the number of instalments by special agreements, with the individuals who may become subscribers.

3d. On the failure of payment of any instalment of the sums subscribed according to the tenor of the second article, the next preceeding instalment of twelve dollars and fifty cents, which shall have been paid, for every hundred dollars subscribed shall be forfeited to the United States.

4th. The sums subscribed shall and may be paid to the credit of the United States, at the Bank of the United States, or at the offices of discount and deposit of the said Bank at Boston, New York, Baltimore, or Charleston, or at either of the Banks of Salem, in Massachusetts, Newport and Providence in Rhode-Island, Hartford in Connecticut, Albany in New-York, or Alexandria in Virginia, for which payments, the receipts of the Cashiers of the Offices of Discount and Deposit and of the Banks aforesaid shall be received at the Bank of the United States as equivalent to money; but no payment of a subsequent instalment shall be received at any other place than that where the first instalment was paid, except at the Bank of the United States; in case any deposits shall be made at the offices of Discount or Deposit, or at either of the Banks aforesaid, which shall not be applied to the payment of the first instalment of subscriptions to the Loan aforesaid, the said deposits shall be forthwith refunded by directions from the Treasury.

5th. For the sums or number of shares of one hundred dollars, which may be subscribed, certificates shall be given by the Cashier of the Bank of the United States, which shall be assignable by indorsement, and delivery of the parties in whose favour the said certificates may be issued, until the completion of the payments required by the tenor of the second article preceeding.

6th. The sums subscribed and paid in pursuance of the tenor of the second article preceeding, shall after the said payments have been compleated, constitute a funded capital stock divisible into shares of one hundred dollars each, which capital stock shall bear interest at the rate of eight per centum per annum from the times fixed for the payment of the respective instalments payable quarter yearly at the Treasury of the United States, or at the Loan Offices where the same may stand credited, until the last day of December, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eight.

7th. After the last day of December in the said year one thousand eight hundred and eight, and after reasonable notice to the creditors, which shall be given by an advertisement in some public newspaper, printed at the seat of the government of the United States, the said capital stock shall be redeemable at the pleasure of the United States by the reimbursement of the whole sum or sums borrowed, and which may constitute the said capital stock either at the treasury of the United States or at the loan offices where the same may stand credited.

8th. The credits for the said capital stock shall and may be separately certified in sums either for one hundred, four hundred, one thousand, four thousand or ten thousand dollars, and the credits so certified shall be transferable by the creditors, or their attornies, at the Treasury and Loan Offices respectively, in pursuance of the rules which have been, or which may be established relative to the transfer of the funded stock of the United States,

9th. A sufficient sum of the surplus of the duties on Imports and Tonnage beyond the permanent appropriations heretofore charged upon them by law, together with the faith of the United States are hereby pledged for the fulfillment of this contract, in pursuance of, and according to the terms and conditions of the act of Congress herein before recited.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Treasury of the United States at Philadelphia, this twelfth day of January one thousand seven hundred and ninety nine.

IT is perhaps futile to expect to work conviction in the minds of so inveterate and vicious a class of men, as the Democrats of America, by any arguments however forcible, or any display of truth, however irresistible: These writings are, however, calculated to produce a more important and useful effect, by placing the subject in its true light before honest men, who are uninformed, or have been misinformed as to the nature and objects of those bills.
